June 18, 2013

At Tuesday's Board of Supervisors meeting, three Fairfax County employees were presented with the A. Heath Onthank Award, the highest honor Fairfax County bestows on its employees. Honored this year were Thomas Fleetwood (Dept. of Housing and Community Development), Lenny Wright (Dept. of Public Works and Environmental Services), and Renee Edwards (Fairfax County Public Library). While we honored these three employees, we reaffirmed our appreciation and esteem for the entire County workforce.

In other business, we had a lively discussion on the home child care zoning amendment. This action was initiated by a change in state practices that required home care providers to show that they are in compliance with local zoning laws. A Town Hall meeting to educate providers on the changes and assist with special permit applications is planned for July 20th. Details on this meeting are below.

I hope to see you out and about in the Hunter Mill District -

Cathy Hudgins
